

JAMES EGAN

Call 2015

James has a busy and successful traditional and commercial chancery, property and private client practice. Both in and out of Court, he is often commended for his attention to detail, focused legal analysis, and his persuasive written and oral advocacy. He takes a calm and considered view to all cases, combining his legal knowledge with practical, commercial advice. Whilst he is often recommended for his amicable and sensitive interaction with lay clients, he is not afraid to advise lay clients realistically about the prospects of success and financial implications of proceeding to trial. Notwithstanding, in Court, James is a robust litigator and does not shy away from pursuing a difficult argument.

Whilst James is regularly instructed in cases of all sizes and complexity, his expertise has led him to be instructed by a number of leading firms often in high value and complex cases. For example, in the recent reported case of Harbour Fund III LP v Kazakhstan Kagazy Plc [2021] EWHC 1128 (Comm) James, led by Rupert D'Cruz QC, successfully defended Kazakhstan Kagazy JSC against numerous claims by Harbour Fund III LP in relation to a $300 million judgment obtained in early Kagazy v Zhunus litigation. This high value dispute spanned multiple areas of law including conflicts of laws (particularly the application and interpretation of Kazakh rehabilitation/insolvency law), alleged contractual variation and interpretation, alleged agency and authority issues, and alleged unjust enrichment/restitution. Mrs Justice Moulder found in favour of Kazakhstan Kagazy JSC on all issues in her 72-page judgment which can be viewed here.

James's multi-disciplinary expertise means that many of his cases span multiple different areas of law, his practice largely focuses upon:

- Trusts, inheritance and probate matters
- Corporate and personal insolvency matters
- Property and residential/commercial landlord and tenant claims
- Court of Protection
- Commercial disputes
- Partnership and company disputes

James is also regularly instructed in cases brought by or against children and/or protected parties, and he is therefore very familiar with acting on behalf of or litigating against 'litigation friends' for children and protected parties (and consequently the procedures set out in Part 21 of the Civil Procedure Rules and/or Insolvency Rules 12.23-12.25). Having dealt with multiple such cases, James is experienced in adapting his approach sensitively to ensure the best and most appropriate handling of such cases.

Trusts & Estates

James has extensive experience in all aspects of trust, probate and estate claims (including drafting applications for service of proceedings out of the jurisdiction) and advising upon allegations of professional negligence in this context. He also has significant experience in offshore litigation.

Recent Private Client: Contentious experience includes:

- Successfully advising and representing personal representatives, beneficiaries and applicants both pre-action, in mediations and at Court in Inheritance (Provision for Family & Dependents) Act 1975 claims. James deals with estates at all values, regularly handling matters from modest estates through to those valued in the several millions of pounds. James has advised and represented spouses, former spouses, cohabitants, dependents and children of the Deceased in their claims.
- Successfully removing and defending trustees/personal representatives in removal claims (both onshore and offshore);
- Successfully applying to rectify the register of members and appointing directors after the sole director/shareholder of a 'Model A' Articles of Association company has died;
- Successfully applying by way of originating summons to remove final caveats;
- Successfully representing beneficiaries in construction/rectification claims;
- Advising on and drafting 'Cobden-Ramsay v Sutton Order' proceedings;
- Drafting section 116 Senior Courts Act 1981 passing-over proceedings;
- Successfully advising on and drafting proceedings to compel trustees to transfer assets to absolute beneficiaries;
- Successfully applying for an account and inventory of a high value estate;
- Advising on, drafting and successfully recovering possession of the Deceased's property;
- Advising on equitable tracing and personal remedies for the recovery of misapplied trust monies;

Court of Protection

James has a particular interest in advising and representing parties in applications before the Court of Protection dealing with property and affairs. Having been instructed both by individual parties and by the Official Solicitor acting as litigation friend for P, James has been praised for his sensible and pragmatic handling of proceedings with a view to assisting the parties narrow the issues to be determined by the Court.

Recent Court of Protection experience includes:

- Successfully defending an application to revoke a Lasting Power of Attorney and removal of attorneys;
- Applications to approve a statutory will on behalf of P;
- Applications to appoint an Interim Deputy;
- A complex Financial Dispute Resolution hearing involving a multi-million pound estate and a number of company and trust structures;
- Advising beneficiaries and personal representatives in relation to the Code of Practice for LPA Attorneys concerning inter vivos gifts and dispositions.

James is also regularly instructed in the 'overlap' between Court of Protection and civil proceedings, particularly
